Customer Reviews

With fun songs and story line, kids love listening and singing along while building a basic vocabulary. -- Family Fun Magazine, November 2006

Beth Manners, writer and producer, worked as a project manager in international business for 10 years, and learned first-hand of the importance of speaking other languages. She also observed, from European colleagues living in the states, how easy it is for young children to learn new languages. Upon becoming a mother in 1990, her interest and passion for early-language learning developed. She wrote her first script in 1990 and assembled a team of language teachers, college professors, composers and foreign speaking child actors and singers to produce Fun French for Kids. She followed up with Fun Spanish for Kids in 1998 and released both Magic French for Kids and Magic Spanish for Kids in 2000. Beth also gives an interactive introduction to Spanish and French for young children at events throughout the Northeast.

The kids like to listen to it, but not enough to want to commit to memory. I guess it's just not catchy enough! I.e. Sesame street had a skit on one episode where they sing "you say, 'me llamo'...". It was catchy, so it made it easy to remember. I think I'm going to keep looking for something like that. This cd covers ALOT in 30 min- i.e. food nouns, introducing one's self, how to say "i'm thirsty, i'm hungry" verb conjugation of comer (to eat) and hablar (to talk or speak), pronouns, the weather... I think it focuses on too many topics instead of taking 1 concept at a time and making that concept easy to learn. Remember-this is for 2 years old AS WELL as for 6 years-that's a pretty wide range. it may work for a 6 year old but for english speaking 2 year olds -they're still learning those topics in english.

My 2 and 4 year old love this. It's fast paced, combination of story and song. Has a quiz at the end with the sounds you listen to throughout the CD. Great ideas! Engaging.

We enjoy listening to it

After an introduction to Spanish, my students really enjoy CD's - especially ones that feature "real " conversations or catchy songs. This one is pretty good, but I agree with the other reviewers, the vocabulary that is focused on does not go as well with other textbooks or curriculum, and so is not reinforcing or building confidence near as much as it could. I recommend Hop Skip and Sing as well (by Ana Lomba) but it's a little young for my 6 year old already. As with all CD's, I do recommend flash cards or something to go along with it, to help concrete the information and the experience. Immersion works, but only after a foundation (however small) has been built. Presenting the target language (Spanish in this case) in many formats will produce better results, faster, and longer lasting! Sra. Good job

My 5 year old daughter loves this CD.

I bought this for my 2 year old to listen to and have found it very educational and FUN for myself as well. Having taken Spanish in high school, I had some background, but had forgotten most of it. This was a great refresher...much more entertaining than learning it out of books like I did back then. My two year old likes it as well - we've only had it for a couple weeks, but she mimics words back. I highly recommend! I just ordered Beth Manners' Magic Spanish CD since I liked this one so well.

This plays nonstop in our car. We need another one now! :) Thank you!
