Declaration Of Independence

Synopsis

Resentful of their government's abuses and usurpations, thirteen colonies declared their right to become independent States. The Declaration of Independence codified beliefs held in common by thirteen British-American colonies. These beliefs included the assertion that it is "the duty" of the people to terminate an abusive government. That obstructions should not be placed against the lawful migration and naturalization of foreigners. That military intervention should never supersede local civil authority. And that civilians, regardless of the allegations against them, should never be held or tried outside of their regional civilian court system.

How can one NOT love these documents. They are the building blocks upon which this Great Nation was founded, and survives to this day. The wisdom of our forefathers was such that it has empowered us as US Citizens, with many rights and privileges that are enjoyed nowhere else on earth. It pains me greatly though that we have among us some sensationalizing, self-centered, self-indulgent, egotistical politicians who dare have the audacity to threaten to take away and eliminate even minute parts of these treasures because they do not fit in with their own ideologies. While it is their 1st Amendment right to say these things, (and I will defend their right to do so) it is also MY 1st Amendment right to suggest they find suitable accommodations elsewhere - say the Middle East perhaps.

Useful reference

Everyone needs to read this. Refresh yourselves before every election. And maybe more often throughout the year Bill of Rights , too

Most Americans don't bother to spend the time to actually read these volumes all the way through. In my estimation, a basic understanding of the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution should be a mandatory prerequisite for full American citizenship. Written by Benjamin Franklin who, with Thomas Jefferson, constituted the most intelligent of our founding fathers. Highly Recommended.

Every American should read and reread this as a basis for understanding and appreciating the genius of our system and how it works. Understand the context and situation which this document was written, inspiring the Founders to create a document that prescribes the Peoples' rights and protections from tyranny perpetrated by the government.

Still about as perfect a political statement that you will ever see. Too bad the politicians, especially the Executive Branch, swear to it but then when sworn in simply (and illegally) ignore the parts they do not like. The Legislative and Judicial Branches could put a stop to that behavior, but don't seem to have the backbone to fulfill their on responsibilities.

Everyone should have a copy of these documents and read them often. Too many of us are unfamiliar with them, their ideals, and how they evolved. These are the basis of American exceptionalism. The backbone of our way of life. We do ourselves, our youth, and our future generations a vast disservice by no longer studying these inspired writings in our schools. Five stars? How about infinite stars?

Historical document that should be a must read for all who live in this country, for those people who occupy a government office....
