Customer Reviews

I was in Prague recently for the first time since about 1995. A lot has changed and I wanted a city guide book that gave me background on the history, both ancient and more contemporary, of Prague, its monuments, sights and neighborhoods. This was not adequate. The "Must See" series of guides are what I would call "guide lite!" In fact so "lite" that this one contained nothing I didn't already know or could find in any free handout from a local hotel or on the internet. There was nothing and I repeat, nothing in this guidebook that was worth the purchase price! I was shocked by the lack of information or history, something the Michelin "Green Guide" series have always been famous for. This new series, in my view, is worthless. Most of the book is given over to shopping, dining options and hotels. I use TripAdvisor for things like that. I do not need to take a guidebook to Prague for that; what I needed was an informative guide to the neighborhoods, museums, buildings, palaces, et al of Prague. This had the most cursory, if not perfunctory information and not worth buying. Avoid this series!
